Statement of Values & Organizational Code of Ethics

[Approved by the ASET Board of Trustees 7.27.04]

ASET is defined by a united membership. We come together, from diverse backgrounds and experiences, as a community where we provide leadership, advocacy and resources that promote professional excellence and quality patient care in neurodiagnostics. ASET’s ethical standards and core values of respect, integrity, excellence and responsibility sustain our work.

We believe in a life of service and compassion that renews our humanity each and every day. We adhere to the highest ethical standards because of our commitment to the membership and the profession. We define ourselves through our conduct that sets us apart from other organizations. We honor the members, contributors and volunteers with a duty and stewardship to carry out ASET’s mission. We embrace transparency, openness and responsibility in our work and in all our actions.

Therefore, ASET has formally adopted a code of ethics with which all of our trustees, staff and volunteers are familiar and to which they adhere. This Statement of Values and Code of Ethics provides a foundation for us to use in guiding our behavior.

Statement of Values

Our vision is to lead the field of neurodiagnostics and serve as a community within allied health. Our vision and values are built on a foundation of widely shared principles. They are:

Respect for the worth and dignity of individuals, including pluralism, inclusiveness, and diversity and compassion

INTEGRITY
Transparency, sincerity and honesty

EXCELLENCE
Commitment to excellence and uphold the public trust and public good

RESPONSIBILITY
Responsible stewardship of resources and accountability

These values form the basis of our code of ethics designed to inform and guide the actions that we take in developing our policies and practices.

The ASET Code of Ethics

Mission
ASET - The Neurodiagnostic Society provides leadership, advocacy and resources to promote professional excellence and quality patient care in neurodiagnostics. As a membership organization, ASET advances the field by serving member needs; defining and endorsing standards of practice; providing innovative educational opportunities; promoting the profession; and building coalitions in allied health and other communities of interest. Neurodiagnostics includes but is not limited to Electroencephalography, (EEG), Evoked Potentials (EP), Nerve Conduction Studies (NCS), Polysomnography/Sleep Technology (PSG), Intraoperative Neurophysiological Monitoring (IONM), Long Term Monitoring (LTEM), and Intensive Care Unit Continuous EEG Monitoring (ICU/cEEG).

All of our programs support this mission and all who work for or on behalf of the Society understand and are loyal to that mission and purpose. The mission is responsive to our members and communities served by ASET and is of value to the general public.

Personal and Professional Integrity

All board members, staff and volunteers of ASET act with honesty, integrity and openness in all their dealings as representatives of the Society. ASET promotes a working environment that values respect, fairness and integrity.

Process and Afterward
The Statement of Values and Code of Ethics was developed by the ASET Executive Committee and approved by the ASET Board of Trustees, with much of the original content drafted by a subcommittee of the Independent Sector Ethics and Accountability Committee. Written permission was granted to use the content in whole, or in part, by the Independent Sector.

This statement will continue to provide the Society with a foundation by which we will act and function, as it is reviewed and revised, as necessary. It is not all encompassing, but by necessity, contains broad ethical principles. In many cases, specific practices and policies are in place, which are also reviewed and revised as necessary.

Most importantly, this document is shared on a regular basis with the ASET membership, donors and other constituencies to help guide everyone involved with ASET regarding our values and principles by which we believe in and act upon.
